THE EUREKA Steel Ranges

are as good as the best

TOP COOKING SURFACE

Oven 12 inches high
17 inches wide
21 " deep
Balanced oven door.

It is a well-established fact, and conceded by the public in general that Cast Iron Cook Stoves and Ranges are things of the past, and superseded by steel ranges, on account of their great durability, superior baking and cooking qualities, and economy in the consumption of fuel. The indestructibility of wrought steel, as compared with cast iron, at once establishes its superiority for cooking ranges. The cold rolled steel plate used in the construction of the Eureka Range has many advantages. Malleable steel plate is a high grade of metal in its purest state, rolled into plates with high pressure that not only insures a uniform thickness, but increases its density by compressing more closely its texture, making it perfectly invincible to the acids produced by the different stages of combustion. Another strong recommendation in favor of Steel Plate is its excellence of construction of all parts subjected to the different degrees of heat, while it does not blister or scale, and owing to its density and fineness of grain is not affected by rust.

CONSTRUCTION—The bodies and ovens of the Eureka Range are made of the highest grade of cold rolled malleable Steel thoroughly patent leveled having an even and smooth surface and free from scale. The ovens are closely boiler riveted to the bodies of the ranges, making perfectly tight joints, proof against ashes, dust and soot. The bottoms of the ovens are securely braced with heavy steel channel bars running diagonally across, which are riveted to the bottom of ovens with counter sunk head rivets, thus absolutely preventing their warping or buckling.

FIRE BOX—The fire box of the Eureka Range is mounted with a Duplex Grate. Burns wood or coal.

Asbestos Lined Flues—The flues and end of the fire box are asbestos lined. Asbestos being a fire proof material, indestructible and a non-conductor it prevents the heat radiating into the room and effectually confines it within the range, against the oven, which tends to great economy in the consumption of fuel, and insures great durability of the range.

TOP WARMING CLOSET—Top warming closet of the Eureka Range is novel and beautiful and has revolving door, which swings up under the top of the closet out of the way, taking up no space and permitting the whole of the interior of the closet to be exposed while placing in food to be warmed.

JAPANING—The bodies of the ranges and closets are dipped and baked to a high degree of heat, insuring them to withstand long usage. In fact the Eureka Range ought, and will with care, last a lifetime.

H. M. KEARBY.

In this issue of the Courier will be found the announcement of H. M. Kearby, who comes before the people asking an endorsement of his record as county judge. Hiram Kearby was born on the old Egbert farm in Hickman county in 1852. While yet a young man he moved to this county and settled on a farm near Alexander, where he lived until elected county judge. Since that time he has lived in Hickman. A man of much energy, coupled with natural ability and conservatism makes Judge Kearby peculiarly fitted for the office he seeks. This is proven by the way he has already conducted the affairs of the county. Since Judge Kearby has been in office he has paid especial attention to the county roads and under his direction a vast improvement in all the roads has been seen. One of the iron bridges to the county was built and paid for during his administration. When the I.C. railroad put in a new track near Fulton it became necessary to make an overhead crossing. The railroad company, in order to build as cheap as possible, made a very steep approach at both ends of the bridge. Judge Kearby, always alert to county's interest, forced the company to grade down both ends for perhaps a quarter of a mile in all, and agree to keep it up themselves, which is a considerable saving to the county, besides making a good road to haul over. This is simply given as one of the instances where Judge Kearby's foresight and judgment has been of benefit to the county. Under Judge Kearby's administration the new court house was built and paid for, the matter being financed so successfully that no one felt any extra burden or hardship. Judge Kearby has given the county an economical administration, without being niggardly, and if re-elected we have a right to expect that he will continue to do so.

The election held at Mayfield Saturday on the whiskey question resulted in an overwhelming victory for local option. For years back this same old fight has continued in Mayfield and each time the victory for the "drugs" is more pronounced. This year the vote was 208 for saloons and 543 against, a majority of 335 for the temperance people and this, by the way, is the result of elections in nearly all towns where prohibition has been tried.

T. N. SMITH.

Today we announce Hon. T. N. Smith a candidate for county attorney of Fulton county subject to the action of the democratic primary Nov. 8 1904. Mr. Smith needs no introduction to the people of Fulton county having been identified with its interest for many years. Mr. Smith was born in this county, near Fulton, in 1867 and has lived here all his life. He began the practice of law in 1892 and since that time has stuck close to his chosen profession. He has been a student all his life and with the practical training he has gained in a large and growing practice, he is fully qualified to discharge the duties of the office. In politics Mr. Smith has ever been an ardent democrat, always supporting the party nominees and making speeches in their interest when occasion demanded. Personally, Tom Smith is agreeable and companionable, broadminded and liberal and he makes friends wherever he is known. As an officer of the county he would discharge the duties incumbent upon him faithfully, without fear or favor. We commend him to the consideration of the voters.

WORLD'S FAIR STOCK SHOW.

The Part Kentucky Thoroughbreds Will Take in the Big Event.

Commencing this week, Kentucky will make the greatest live stock exhibit in her history at the horse show at the World's Fair, beginning with a display of horses, mules, etc. Mr. J. B. Bowles, of Bardstown, the State commissioner in charge of live stock, in discussing the matter last week, was most enthusiastic over Kentucky's prospects for securing blue ribbons at the show. He said: "We will carry to the World's Fair a special train of Kentucky's best horses, jacks and mules for the first part of this big show. Every entry in the thoroughbred class is entitled to Kentucky. This will be the first real show of thoroughbreds ever held in America. Heretofore thoroughbred owners would not even consider a proposition for making a display of their stock, feeling that the animals they owned were too valuable to make trips for prizes that represented only a small part of what the same horses could win in big races. It was only after a deal of persuasion that I got the consent of the thoroughbred owners of Kentucky to make a display at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and these gentlemen who have entered their stock are entitled to much credit for permitting their horses to take part in this display."

As before stated, there will be none but Kentucky thoroughbreds in the exhibition. There have been about fifty entered, belonging to Hal P. Hoadley, W. T. Wilmore, Lexington; George Grady, Mrs. Carter, Lexington; Versailles. The entries include Ormington, the champion two-year-old, champion three-year-old and champion four-year-old of America. He retired unbeaten, and is considered the highest type of thoroughbred in the United States, being valued at $15,000. Another entry is May Hempstead, who won the best Oaks Stake, the best race Americans ever saw. A third great thoroughbred which will be sent from Kentucky is Daytonia, said to have run the fastest mile ever run in Kentucky. He is another representative of the great type of Kentucky thoroughbreds. In addition to this, there will be several noted dams and full brothers and sisters to great performers.

In the trotting classes J. Granville Cecil, Jr., of Danville, who won all the honors of this character at the Chicago Exposition, will be represented by a stable of similar breeding. His horses hoping to repeat the Chicago performance. Bailey, Versailles, will bring with other trotters a representative of one of the best types of the Kentucky harness horses, which has trotted a mile in 2:12. Mike Bowerman, of Lexington, is to bring along his famous aged mare, with several head of young stock. Dr. Cann's noted grand winner of Georgetown, which has perhaps captured more blue ties in horse shows than any other Kentucky horse, included in the entries.

Kentucky has a great reputation for her saddle horses, and this reputation is to be fully maintained at the exposition. Two of the most famous stallions in the world, both of them from Kentucky, are to meet at the show for the first time. One is Montgomery Chief, owned by Ball Brothers, of Versailles, the other, Bourbon King, owned by Jones Brothers, of North Middletown. Ten thousand dollars has been refused for one of these horses and $5,000 has been refused for the other. Neither has been beaten and the World's Fair show will be a natural of the fittest. In this test of supremacy, it is further interesting to know that these two horses are full brothers. Two famous saddle mares from Kentucky are also to meet for the first time. They are Grey Queen, owned by Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, and controlled by Ball Brothers, of Versailles, and Ivy, owned by T. E. Houshens, of Chaplain. These are perhaps Kentucky's most famous saddle mares. Saddle horse lovers from all parts of the Union will go to St. Louis to see these stallions and mares meet. In addition to these, in the classes for young stock, exhibitions will be made by Gay Brothers, of Pigeon; Ball Brothers, of Versailles; M. W. Wall, of Auburn; L. W. Preston, of Glasgow; T. Johnson, of Mt. Sterling; John T. Hughes, of Lexington; Maj. David Castleman, of Pleasant Hill, and many other well known Kentucky breeders.

The entries made by these owners are of their best, and these gentlemen expect to take the lion's share of honors back to Kentucky. It can unhesitatingly be said that this will be the greatest saddle horse show ever seen, both in point of entries and in quality. All features of the horse show will be the ring for the cup given by the American Saddle Horse Breeders' Association for the finest saddle-bred horse. There are already thirty-five entries—an unprecedented number—and about three-fourths of these are from Kentucky. To see this cup contested for is alone worth the trip to the World's Fair.

Kentucky's Jack breeders will make a notable display of jacks and mules. The State's interests in this line will be upheld by W. L. Caldwell, Danville; I. Selby Tevis, Shelby City; Hubble & Newhanks, Hubble; T. H. Adams, Brighton; J. B. Riley, Hopkinsville, and a number of others.

Mr. Bowles has also made arrangements for a reception to be given in the Kentucky building by the American Saddle Horse Breeders' Association to stockmen from all States and foreign countries, on the evening of Tuesday, August 30. This reception will probably be one of the most enjoyable social events held to horsemen generally during the big display.

"WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING?"

ON A SOUND FOUNDATION

Democracy Will Triumph Because It Stands for the Right of All the People.

The speech of Hon. Champ Clark, notifying Judge Parker of his nomination to the presidency, is regarded by many as a political gem. We herewith give the salient points of the address. "President comes and presidents go, but the great republic—freighted with the hopes of the human race for liberty—goes on forever."

"All history proves that a government bottomed on popular suffrage is a government by party. Experience shows that he serves his party best who serves his country best. The names most fondly cherished are those of men who devoted their time, their energies, their talents, their fortunes, and their lives to the promotion of the public weal. Stronger incentive to high and patriotic endeavor no man has than the hope to stand through all the ages in that goodly company."

"Out of the masterly debates and profound deliberations of the St. Louis convention emerged a reunited party, which goes forth conquering to conquer. The flower of the democracy assembled there to consult on the state of the country and to take measures for restoring the government to the principles enunciated by the fathers, from which it has drifted far in these latter days."

"We enter upon this campaign with the strength which grows out of the union of a mighty party, with the enthusiasm born of truth, with the courage that emanates from a righteous cause, with the confidence of men animated by noble purposes and lofty patriotism."

"The principles of democracy are grounded in eternal truth. As formulated by the father of democracy they are not for a day, but for all time, and are as applicable in this hour as when he proclaimed them in his inaugural address, which has become a classic."

"The necessity of putting them into practice is as pressing now as it was then. To once more make them the basis of our political action is the pleasant but arduous task assigned you by the democracy of the land."

"To serve the whole American people, without discrimination, faithfully and well; to distribute the blessings of the federal government, to lighten the burdens of government by reducing taxation to the minimum and by rigid economy in the public service; to administer the powers conferred by the constitution justly, wisely, fearlessly, vigorously and patriotically, without diminution and without usurpation. To maintain freedom of thought, freedom of speech and the freedom of the press; to promote the sacred cause of human liberty everywhere by the wholesome use of our example; to vindicate and glorify the theory and practice of representative government; to secure its blessings to our posterity for all time—these always have been, are, and forever must be, the aims and purposes of the democracy."

"These aims and purposes have been carefully, clearly and comprehensively set forth in the declaration of principles which was unanimously reported to the St. Louis convention in July last by the platform committee after more than 16 hours spent in its consideration, in which every great live issue was frankly and boldly discussed, and which was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted by that convention composed of delegates from every constituency under our flag."

"There was a splendid array of presidential candidates before the St. Louis convention, supported by loyal friends and ardent admirers. An unusually large number of men were placed in nomination for the greatly coveted honor. You were chosen with such enthusiasm as foretells success. Harmonies all over the country are asked to endorse these leaders in voting for their candidates for president and vice president.—Brazill (Ind.) Democrat.

"The republican committee has closed its Washington headquarters and moved to New York. Washington is too far from Wall street and too close to scandal.—St. Louis Republic.

"Judge Parker's resignation of the office of chief justice of the New York court of appeals again reveals him as a man who knows what is right to do and when to do it.—Philadelphia Record.

THE STORM THAT STRUCK ST. LOUIS

It Took a Dip into the North End, Friday Afternoon, and Did Enormous Damage.

THEN JUMPED THE MISSISSIPPI TO VENICE AND MADISON, ILLINOIS.

Three Persons Dead and Many Injured; Hundreds Left Homeless and Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Property Damaged.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—Three persons are known to have been killed and over a score injured by a terrific windstorm which swept over a portion of North St. Louis and crossed the river to Venice and Madison, Ill., and shortly after three o'clock Friday afternoon. Several hundred persons were rendered homeless.

The area covered by the storm did not exceed a mile square, and outside of that particular section there was practically no disturbance. In fact, people in the business section, only two miles from the scene of the storm, could scarcely be persuaded that such a thing was possible until the first reports began to come in.

Followed by Heavy Rain. This storm was followed, about eight o'clock in the evening, by a terrific electric and rainstorm, covering the entire city. During the 30 minutes the storm raged, no less than five alarms came in from the World's fair grounds, which had escaped the afternoon storm entirely. None of the alarms was of a serious nature. The wind during the evening reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour, while the rainfall approximated two inches.

A Cyclonic Wave. The cyclonic wave which swept down upon North St. Louis in the afternoon tore its way for 15 blocks through houses and sheds, leaving a path filled with debris. Houses and factories between Eleventh street and the river were unroofed and the walls of a hundred residences were blown in. Broadway, from Bremen avenue south to Dock street, was literally piled with debris, tangled telegraph and electric light poles and cables, street signs and loose boards. The small loss of life was remarkable when the fury of the storm is considered.

The Property Damaged. The damage to the buildings in the devastated area will aggregate at least $250,000, according to several business men in North St. Louis. The greatest damage was done, perhaps, to the rolling mills of the National Enameling & Stamping Co. plant. It was a mass of wreckage. About the only thing standing were four big smokestacks. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

The damage to the Summers Manufacturing plant at 3431 North Broadway is placed at $25,000. The damage to the Buck Stone Co.'s building at Drexel and Hall streets was about $25,000. The corners of the building were blown out and holes were punched into the brick wall in the rear. Every pane of glass in the windows on the south side was broken. The damage to the Mallinckrodt Chemical Co.'s plant at Second and Drexel streets will reach several thousand dollars.

At the church of Our lady of Good Counsel, Father Tracy estimates the damage at $3,000 to $4,000. The work of the storm will fall heavily upon the electric power and telephone companies.

Heavy Mortgages Damaged. Damages to residences in the path of the cyclone will reach $100,000. Many of these were partially unroofed, and slides along the course of the storm were blown down.

Following is the list of casualties reported: The Dead. Joseph Weisley, aged 19; killed by falling bricks. John Ellington, aged 17 years, 4117 North Broadway; struck on head by a brick in the collapsing walls of the Interstate Cooperative Co.'s plant at Madison, Ill.

Mrs. Margaret C. Beal, wife of John Beal, Madison, Ill.; crushed by falling walls of her home. The Injured. Jacob Haemmerle, shoulder broken. William Frick, scalp wounds and bruised legs. Gertrude Polinsky, contusion of left arm. James Crosby, fractured ribs. William Diekhoefer, bruised neck. Nicholas Polinsky, shoulder and arm broken and leg bruised by falling timber. Edward Patterson, cuts on head and left arm. Louis M. McCullough, leg broken. Herman Sauerwiese arm broken in two places. W. H. Linahan, contusion on arms. Mrs. William Gordon, knocked down by lightning and severely shocked.

James Mitchell, aged 45 years, Venice, Ill.; slight injuries received by being struck by a shutter blown from her home.

Mrs. Thomas Wheelock, 45 years of age, living with her son, Thomas Wheelock, in a houseboat on Venice III., was seriously injured about head and in by articles in her bedroom striking her when her home was destroyed.

John Bennett, aged 22 years, son of George W. Bennett, city marshal of Venice, Ill.; right leg sprained and bruised by being caught in wreckage of a shed where he, with other members of the Bennett family, sought shelter from the storm.

Wesley Bennett, eight-year-old son of Marshall Bennett, left arm broken. Miss Laura Bennett, 16 years; ankle sprained and cut by glass about the face; not serious. Minnie Bennett, aged three years; hip injured; not serious.

Mrs. Bennett, wife of Marshall Bennett; injury to side; not serious. John Foster, wife of John Foster, living next door to the Bennetts; injury to her right side by falling debris; not serious.

John Foster, aged 42 years, was struck in back by flying debris while trying to escape from his home; injuries not serious.

Considerable damage was done at the World's fair during the night storm, principally by water in the Utah and Illinois buildings. Several windows in the former were blown in, causing the rooms to be drenched, while the roof of the latter developed a leak that let in the water to an extent that caused ruin to much of the furnishings and decorations.

The Relation of Religion in This Commercial Age

By Dr. N. LUCCOCK, Eminent St. Louis Divine.

"BUSINESS" is one of the first recorded words of our Lord. "I must be about My Father's business." He lifted it into the highest associations, where it ought always to be held. All our human interests and stirring activities have qualities in them and carry responsibilities with them, which touch another world. As brave old Martin Luther used to say, "The transaction may be profitable, and seem fair enough now, but what will God Almighty say about it in the end?"

The age in which we live is preeminently a commercial age. The highest order of intellectual gifts and the noblest energies of the race are to a good degree drawn into the channels of trade. Men seek a career in commerce as they once sought it in the field of battle or in the arena of political life. One may designate the centuries by the central interests which dominated them. The twelfth century was the age of the Crusades, when nation touched nation and separated people united; it was early dawn of the modern era. The thirteenth was the age of chivalry—a century of splendor; the fifteenth was the century of discovery, when new continents arose out of the sea; the eighteenth was a century of political and social life; the nineteenth century was one of invention, when man by his skill and wonderful contrivances began to play with the mighty forces of nature; the twentieth century is destined to be one of commerce, in which the ends of the earth will meet face to face and exchange gifts and wealth and service.

SAVED BY PROMPT ACTION

An East River Ferryboat Crushed By a Transfer Boat.

The Captain of the latter thought and acted quickly and averted a possibly loss of life.

New York, Aug. 20.—A hundred passengers on the ferryboat Southside plying in the East River between Tenth street and Greenpoint, were saved from possible death by quick action on the part of the captain of a New Haven railroad transfer boat. The ferryboat was 50 yards out in the stream, making for the slip at the foot of Tenth street, when the transfer boat, carrying 15 freight cars, was pushed nearly to the center of the ferryboat on the side of the ladies' cabin. The passengers fled in terror, many in the cabin having been cut and bruised by flying glass and splinters.

The captain of the transfer boat realized that if he backed off, the ferryboat would float helplessly away and sink. "I hesitated for help, he ordered on all power, pushed the helpless ferryboat toward the docks and succeeded in showing it against one near the slip, where the passengers quickly scrambled through the windows and over piles of freight to the street.

A few minutes later the Southside settled to the bottom. Darkness and storm, together with a misunderstanding of signals, probably caused the accident.

An Optimistic Outlook

By BISHOP SAMUEL FALLOWS.

into active life of thousands of young men and women of the land. I failed to find in any of these recollections any evidence of pessimism. In some of them references were made to the grave problems which modern society has to meet and the possible dangers which menace our civilization from unhappy existing conditions. But there was an emphatic strain of hope and cheer along with the note of alarm. However dark the clouds that loomed upon our horizon, they are not so threatening as those which have shrouded the heavens in blackness in the days gone by.

These prophecies of coming good are the true seers and teachers of our youth. It has been said, "Revolutions never go backward." There may be an apparent retrograding here and there. Things may be worse in a particular period or in a circumscribed area. There may be stagnation of thought and paralysis of action and ensuing death in a nation or community, but the progress of the race is ever upward.

Why should we not believe in the sentiment of the poetic line, "The grandest times are before us"? The God of nature and humanity has never abdicated His universe. He did not create that universe to be a failure, else He were not the God of wisdom, love and power. On every ample page of the great book he has written progress is emblazoned. His word of truth in the Old Testament is instinct with the promise and potency of the grandest times which are before a waiting and watching and working world. Christ declared that greater works should be done by His believing disciples than He Himself had performed. The best days the world has ever known are the present. To deny it is to deny that the sun shines. But better days are to come.

Change in Religious Thought

By PROF. SHALER MATTHEWS, University of Chicago.

One or two changes in our religion are apparent. The child itself can see a difference in our way of keeping the Sabbath. Theological study of the Bible has changed.

It may be a sad thing that certain truths are questioned, but no attempt to argue to-day with the arguments of the last century is as foolish as to try to fight Indians armed with the rifle as they were fought when they had only bows and arrows.

Religious experience is the same as it always was. If we cannot understand and accept all the theology of the church, let us look to the body of faith, and seeking we shall find.

No Peace in Sight, Says Donnelly

The Packers Can Secure It, However, By an Unconditional Surrender.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—I see no peace in sight, except on condition that the packers surrender on unconditional terms. When the people see the report of Friday night's meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor they will be astounded. We have a trump card to play, and it has been drawn from the deck."

So said President Donnelly of the striking cattle butchers, while he was directing his assistants to go to other cities, and while he himself was preparing to go to East St. Louis to meet International Vice-President Cass E. Schmidt, whom Donnelly will send to look after the labor situation there. He declared the conditions there. He declared the conditions there. He declared the conditions there.

Not since the strike began has President Donnelly sounded so hopeful. He criticized the action of the teamsters in sending a committee into the yards to make an inventory of the stock. "I don't see what the teamsters expected to do," he said. "If they don't like this strike, let them go back to work."

On the subject of the action of the Federation of Labor, Donnelly was silent. He simply declared the report would prove a sensation.

"A national election is coming on," said President Donnelly. "The labor vote is too powerful to be ignored. As soon as I have seen Schmidt in Kansas City, I shall go to Indianapolis. While I am away I expect to make several speeches."

The Hardest Blow Yet. "The mayor's action in declaring the packers shall no longer house their strike-breakers is the hardest blow our foe has received," said President Donnelly. "The packers will have no trouble in getting the breakers out of the plants and out of the yards. We will help them do that, if they need any help, and will see that the outgoing crowds are not hurt. But as soon as the strike-breakers will not be able to get back to their places of work."

The Packers Will Contest. Packers affected by Corporation Counsel Tolman's opinion holding that thousands of employees lodged at the stock yards must find accommodation elsewhere called a meeting at Swift & Co.'s office to determine what action to take. It was decided before the meeting that attempts to abolish the living quarters in the packing plants would be contested, recourse being had to the courts if necessary.

Say Tolman Is Mistaken. The packers declared informally before canvassing the situation that they would contend that Mal Tolman is mistaken in the premises, and the temporary placing of beds in the plants does not change the character of the buildings any more than the killing of a chicken in a private home would cause evolution of a residence to a slaughter house.

Flood at Globe, Arizona. At Least Seven Lives Were Lost, and It Is Believed That the List Will Be Enlarged.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 20.—Seven lives, at least, were lost in the flood that swept through the town of Globe, Ariz., and surrounding country. The known dead are: W. N. Mitchell, a Southern Pacific machinist, and his wife. O. D. Wilson, clerk. Charles Sins. John Epley. Mrs. Hurd. Miss Moody.

According to the courier who brought the news of the disaster to Bowie, where were drowned besides those named in the foregoing list, but their names are not yet known. The Globe and Northern railroad tracks were washed out for a distance of three-quarters of a mile.

Telegraphic communication with Globe is interrupted, and it has been impossible as yet to learn full details of the disaster.

Globe is located in a broad valley that slopes down to Pinal creek, which crosses the main street of the town. The flood was caused by a cloudburst at Pima, above Globe, on Pinal creek.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person But Doan's Cured Him.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicine to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any doctor could have cured me if I had lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse, and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I feel well and feel no discomfort at all."

A Bit of Diplomacy. The modern man crossed his legs and looked intently at his wife, who was a modern woman, says the New York Press.

"Here we are on the threshold of married life," he said at last, "and, in the language of the poet, we are up against it the very first thing."

She shrugged her shoulders and suggested that it really wasn't her fault.

"I would be glad to help you, Fred. In any way I can," she continued, but my office is the best, and I have had a college education. If there is anything at your office that you don't exactly understand all you have to do is to say so and I will come down and help you straighten it out."

"But what I don't understand is here," he protested.

"She shrugged her shoulders again. 'I know no more about it than you do,' she said. 'However, I can keep books for you or run a typewriter or—'

"Just the thing," he broke in joyfully. "That little typewriter down at my office is the best I ever saw. It is the creature I ever saw, and I'll beg she knows all about managing a house. We'll just keep her up here to make things look nice and homelike and you can take her place at the office."

"There was something in his tone that made her decide to look after the home-making business herself, even if she had to begin going to cooking school to do it.

Between Acts. "Her complexion's made," confided the mother of the bride, dearest friend as the Elvied Girl took her place in a box. "Yes, old maid," replied the dearest friend, spitefully.

AS EASY. Needs Only a Little Thinking.

The food of childhood often decides whether one is to grow up well nourished and healthy or weak and sickly from improper food.

It's just as easy to be one as the other, provided we get a proper start.

A wise physician like the Denver Doctor who knew about food, can accomplish wonders, provided the patient is willing to help and will eat only proper food.

Speaking of this case the Mother said her little four-year-old boy was suffering from a peculiar derangement of the stomach, liver and kidneys and his feet became so swollen he couldn't take a step.

"We called a Doctor who said at once we must be very careful as to his diet. As a proper food was the only cause of his sickness. Sugar especially, he forbade.

"So the Dr. made up a diet and the principal food he prescribed was Grape-Nuts and the boy, who was very fond of sweet things, took the Grape-Nuts readily without adding any sugar. (Dr. explained that the sweet taste was not at all like cane or beet sugar but is the natural sweet of the grains.)

"We saw big improvement in a few days and now Grape-Nuts are almost his only food and he is once more a healthy, happy, rosy-cheeked youngster with every prospect of growing up into a strong healthy man." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The sweet in Grape-Nuts is the Nature-sweet known as Post Sugar, not digested in the liver like ordinary sugar, but preserved in the youngsters a handful of Grape-Nuts are Nature demands sweet and prompts them to call for sugar.

There's a reason. Get the little book "The Road to Wellville" in each pkg.

DORA M. SMITH
County Supt.

Catlett Johnson and wife left Wednesday for Gibsonville, where they will spend a few days in search of health and rest.

Standing in a crowd, gathered to watch the hatching of the snake eggs in the Courier's curio window last Friday was one Frank Mims, our popular barber, who would be called to the aid of a horsehair which he put in a bottle of water some years ago and which three weeks later turned into a snake. He offered to bet his barber shop against the editor's print shop that if he put a horsehair in a bottle of water the same results would be obtained.

Many were the guys flung at the head of the bucking Frank. George Carpenter told him he knew now for the first time what made so many water moccasins, simply because they throw all the dead horses in the river and every hair turned to a snake. Some one else ventured the supposition that an old dead hen, thrown in the water caused so many chicken snakes, etc. Finally our popular hotel keeper, Mr. Durham, on turning away remarked that he didn't care to stay any longer near such a fool. A quizzical smile came over Frank's face as he entered the shop and turned to say: "that will right. I have more fun than you, even if I am."

On the third Monday in September I will offer as prize for the best Alfred G. colt of 1904 season for free to this noted city.
